HISTORY

Founded in 1923; it is a private, not-profit higher education Institution, with a nation-wide coverage, located in Colombia. Due to its philosophical, foundational and missionary principles, its juridical nature and its high social commitment, "Universidad Libre" invests its economic resources in the continuous improvement towards academic excellence and favors higher education access to all social sectors.

The academic activities of «La Universidad Libre» answer to the highest standards proposed by the quality control system of the Colombian Ministry of Education. This is evident in the permanent dialogue held by professors and students with the academic and scientific community, both nation and global wide; in the academic rigor and excellence of its programs of study, and in its commitment to education, research and social development. Academic quality is a mission of «La Universidad Libre» through which we aim our university to be «the best path to the future».

INTERNATIONAL PRINCIPLES OF THE LIBRE UNIVERSITY:

- 1. Academic Collaboration. We recognise other academic communities in diverse environments as a mechanism that facilitates the global circulation of ideas and knowledge in general.
- 2. Solidarity Cooperation. The multiple problems of the contemporary world demand the development of a global conscience that responds ethically to the challenges it faces and that rests on the exercise of scientific knowledge intimately linked to humanistic reflection.
- 3. Shared Responsibility. Understood as a transversal dimension in all the functions of the university, internationalisation is a driving force in the process of cultural transformation.
- 4. Comparability and visibility. We guarantee the appropriate international comparison of teaching, research and social projection processes; and on the other hand, the visibility of our training, research and social projection actions.
- 5. Responsible leadership. The Libre University sees internationalisation as a planned and coordinated process with institutional leadership and consensus, under the synergies of the different departments, faculties, institutes and programmes.
- 6 Quality and relevance. The innovation and transformation of the university is developed under the principles of quality, relevance and constant evaluation.

INTERNATIONAL CRITERIA OF THE LIBRE UNIVERSITY:

- 1. Importance of Internationalisation. Internationalisation is a priority for the improvement and assurance of university quality; it contributes to the development and leadership of our students and professors, to the academic and research strengthening, as well as to the economic and social well-being of Colombia in the different regions where Universidad Libre has a presence.
- 2. Academic cooperation. Its institutional policy constitutes a proactive and coherent response to a new national, regional and global scenario, and is animated by the desire for solidary academic cooperation, based on mutual understanding, collaboration and respect for diversity in the context of healthy competition.
- 3. The relevance of research. The scientific and academic community of the Universidad Libre focuses its leadership on relevance and obtaining real results and solutions for society, taking into account the promotion of innovation, the commitment to development and the reduction of the knowledge gap.
- 4. International cooperation for development. That it is the obligation of the academic units to recognise the importance of contributing to the positive insertion of Colombia in the international scenario and the construction of peace through participation in international cooperation networks and projects with peers and international development cooperation agencies to promote capacity building, the reconstruction of the social fabric and reconciliation.
